

BAKER COLLEGE
STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

CRJ 2210 Interviewing, Investigations, and Report Writing
3 Semester Credit Hours

Student Learning Outcomes and Enabling Objectives

1. Examine the role of accuracy in interviewing, interrogation, investigation, and report writing.
 - a. Explore the consequences of inaccurate documentation.
 - b. Construct accurate documentation for interviewing, interrogation, and investigation.
2. Explain the role technology plays in interviewing, interrogation, and investigation.
 - a. Describe the different technologies used in interviewing, interrogation, and investigation.
 - b. Identify how technology enhances the process of interviewing, interrogation, investigation, and report writing, including accuracy.
3. Explore how legal issues and ethical principles guide interviewing, interrogation, and investigation.
 - a. Identify legal issues and ethical principles affecting interviewing, interrogation, and investigation.
 - b. Differentiate between legal issues and ethical principles.
 - c. Identify how the Constitution, case law, and internal policies influence methods of investigation.
 - d. Practice ethical decision making in interviewing, interrogation, and investigation situations.
4. Examine communication skills used in interrogation, interviewing, and investigations.
 - a. Identify basic communication skills used in interviewing, interrogation, and report writing.
 - b. Explore the importance of presentation skills used in investigations.
 - c. Apply appropriate communication skills in interview and interrogation situations.
5. Investigate methods of interviewing, interrogations, and investigation.

- a. Describe how the type of crime influences investigation techniques, including interviewing and interrogation.
- b. Examine various techniques used in interviewing and interrogation.
- c. Explore ethical and legal issues related to interviewing and interrogation.
- d. Use methods of interviewing, interrogation, investigation, and report writing in various crime situations

Big Ideas and Essential Questions

Big Ideas

- Investigation
- Communication

Essential Questions

1. Why is accuracy important?
2. How are communication skills important to interrogation and interviewing?
3. How do the Constitution, case law, and internal policies influence methods of investigation, interrogation, and interviewing?
4. What role does technology play in interviewing, interrogation, and investigation?
5. What effect do ethics have on interviewing, interrogation, and investigation?
6. Why are various techniques used in interrogation and interviewing?

These SLOs are approved for experiential credit.

Effective: Fall 2017